Workshop Description:

Please join us in this year's two part workshop as we learn the latest research regarding the executive function challenges of students experiencing stress and/or anxiety. Here, you will gain insight as to the executive function obstacles in students' thinking and acquire a clearer understanding as how to address such challenges. Experienced teachers will be onsite to give you a bird's eye view of their classrooms and share their success stories for incorporating the 6 TIPPS/SEL strategies into their daily teaching practice. During this interactive portion of the workshop, they will answer all your questions and share their vast knowledge and experience for reaching and teaching students in inner city schools.

Only those staff members who have attended one or more of Tina's workshops will be considered
